WAIT FOR THE OTHER SIDE.

Arabi Bey evidently knows what he is about, at least as well as the members of Mr. Gladstone's Government. Alexandria either is or it is not within the dominions of the Sultan and his tributary, the Khedive. If it is within their dominions, the act of Admiral Seymour in bombarding the city without the permission of either of them in order to drive an alleged rebel out of it, was as clearly a violation of international law, as would be the bombardment of New York by the British fleet, without the consent of the Governor of the State, or President Arthur, in order to suppress a movement there for repudiating bonds held in London. Down to the time of bombardment Arabi Bey held Alexandria in apparent obedience to the Khedive, and as it is not easy to contest the contention of Arabi Bey that the Khedive, in accepting an English body-guard, virtually declared his own soldiers to be enemies. It must be admitted that Arabi Bey has a fair show of reason on his side when he declares that the Khedive has put himself in opposition to his own people. As to the shares of Arabi Bey in the pillage, and the massacre at Alexandria, it may be well to remember that we have as yet heard only one side of the story.

THE BRITISH RESERVES.

A London dispatch to-day announces the calling out by the British Government of the reserves, owing to the warlike development of affairs in Egypt. The Army Reserve Force is 47,000 strong. It is never called out except in war. There are also auxiliary forces consisting of 139,111 militia, 14,511 yeomen and 197,485 volunteers, making a total of auxiliary and reserve forces of 338,107 men. The volunteer service is the result of a supposed intended invasion of Great Britain by Napoleon III, when in the zenith of his power and glory. They are only required for home service.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

J. M. Dornier, of the True Future, is out for Secretary of State. Dornier with the help of Esmeralda, proposes to shake something out of the political bag for himself, if possible. That's right John, pull your own wires. Come with a trading delegation and scoop 'em if you can.

The London Times says the True Future is throwing up its hand in holy horror at "outside meddlers." That paper will be equally horrified before it gets through the campaign with the ineffectual officiousness of "inside meddlers."

Routed Alive.

A London N. M. dispatch says a courier from Clifton reports that a large party of Indians attacked a wagon train three miles this side of Clifton yesterday morning, killing two men. The teamsters, seven in number, stood off the Indians for two hours and mortally wounded one Indian. The teamsters, in the face of a heavy fire, rushed out and dragged the wounded Indian into their camp and, after the fight was over, scalped him and roasted him alive.

Redmen's Annual Session.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26. The Great Council of the California Improved Order of Redmen commenced last night its eighteenth great annual session. Great Chiefs presented their annual reports, or long talks, which were referred to appropriate committees. The number of tribes in California is 26, having a total membership on June 30, 1892, of 1,538, there being a decrease of 22 during the past year from death and other causes.

The Edison Electric Light Company intend to light up the First District of New York City September 1st.

A detective Irish Constabulary will be sent to Corcoran to receive O'Brien, held on suspicion of being one of the murderers of Lord Frederick Cavendish.

The case against J. C. Duncan, of the defunct Pioneer Bank was dismissed to-day owing to the failure of important evidence relied upon by the prosecution.

EASTERN.

An Entertaining Yankee.

WASHINGTON, July 26.

The dispatches alleging that Mr. Denny, Consul-General to China, is intriguing against Minister John Russell Young, are not credited here. They are believed to have had their origin with Charles Miller, formerly of Maine, who for some years has been nursing an absurd claim of $300,000 against China. During the Tai Ping rebellion, some ten years ago, Miller owned a small vessel, worth at the outside about $10,000, which was taken by the Chinese authorities to transport troops in the rivers and inlets, where light draught-boats were needed. After a time the rebels captured this vessel and destroyed her. Miller put in a claim, which he ran up to about thirty times the real value of his boat. Mr. Seward refused to aid him press such a monstrous claim. Miller attempted to interest Denny in it, and then returned to this country and went actively to work to secure the appointment of Denny as Minister. A letter of recommendation was secured from General Grant and Miller supposed this a quite guarantee of success and so he did not trouble either the President or State Department very much with the matter. When the place was offered Young, the latter knowing Grant had recommended Denny, expressed a desire not to stand in the way of Denny's or Grant's wishes. He was then informed that Denny would not be nominated in any event. Young, therefore, at the request of the President, accepted the position. As Denny is well aware Young had nothing to do with the failure to appoint him. It is not believed here that Denny has taken the course attributed to him in late dispatches, and for reasons given, they are believed to be the work of Miller and his inflated claims.

A Searching Investigation.

WASHINGTON, July 26.

Some days ago Representative Washburn received a letter from a very reliable gentleman in Minneapolis, who lost a brother in the Jeannette expedition. The letter makes a charge against several officers connected with the expedition and asks that a special committee in the House be appointed to investigate the matter. In the present temper of the House, Washburn finds it impracticable to pass a resolution to raise such committee, but a Lieutenant here has offered in the House a resolution requesting the Secretary of the Navy to appoint a board to make an investigation. This resolution was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and it will undoubtedly be favorably reported within a day or two. It is understood the Secretary of the Navy is in hearty accord with this movement, and desires a most searching investigation into the whole subject. A Court of Inquiry is to investigate all the circumstances attending the loss of the Jeannette, the death of De Long and other officers and men. The investigation is to include an inquiry into the condition of the ship on her leaving, her management up to her destruction, provisions made and plans adopted for the escape of her several boat crews upon their leaving the wreck, the efforts made by the various officers to insure the safety of parties under their immediate charge and for the relief of the other parties. An inquiry will also be made into the general condition, merits, etc., of each officer and the men in the expedition and report the findings of such Court of Inquiry to Congress.

The "Jumbo" River Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 25.

Chairman Page and other authors and friends of the "Jumbo" river and harbor bill, are in a state of panic this evening. When the report of the Conference Committee was brought under discussion in the House this afternoon, and it was reported the Senate had agreed to it, friends of the measure felt reasonably sure of a victory. Page's vigorous speech in favor of the report was not that of a man who feared defeat, while Cox's reply was filled with expressions of hope that the President would veto the measure. The rejection of the report of the Conference Committee by a majority of 15 threw the friends of the bill into a cold perspiration, and before a vote could be taken to clinch this result they succeeded, by frantic efforts, in carrying the motion to adjourn. Of course, their only hope now is to rally strength enough by to-morrow to reconsider the vote by which the report of the Conference Committee was rejected. Friends of the bill are flying hither and thither to-night trying to drum up recruits for the struggle of to-morrow. The opponents of the bill appear to be gaining strength, and to-night they are more hopeful of success than are its friends. Chairman Page is said to be greatly discouraged to-night and to express little hope.

Testing the Edmunds Bill.

OAKLAND, July 25.

Wholesale persecution of Gentiles has been inaugurated and arrangements made for testing the constitutionality of the Edmunds bill in the Supreme Court of the United States.

If adverse, the Mormons have nevertheless determined not to submit, at any cost. Polygamists, from President John Taylor down to distant apostles, bishops and elders in the most extreme part of their domain, have separated from their wives and are living openly with one only. All polygamists have, under orders, resigned from all municipal offices, and monogamists as strong in the faith as these deposed have been selected and commissioned in their places.

Going Back a Good While.

WASHINGTON, July 26.

The Court of Inquiry in the case of General Warren finds, substantially, that General Sheridan was justified in relieving General Warren from his command at the Battle of Five Forks, and that he did not exceed his authority in doing so. It is understood that the Judge Advocate-General expresses a doubt of the propriety of this investigation so long after the occurrence, as under our laws and procedure there could be no remedy, on account of the Statute of limitations, and the disputed questions would have to remain undecided.

Indian Territory Troubles.

MUSKOGEE, I. T., July 26.

Great excitement prevails in the western part of the Creek nation over the killing of Lighthouse Captain Scott, by a party of Loyal Isle or sand men, who made an attack to rescue one of their number held as a prisoner. Capt. Scott was shot and torn in a most shocking manner, while one of his men, who interfered, was fatally wounded. A chief of the Choctaws called for volunteers to keep the peace, but the sandmen are desperate, and the citizens fear a bloody encounter.

Pleased With His Visit.

New York, July 26.

The Chinese Minister, with his suite, took the nine o'clock train last evening for Washington. He was much pleased with his visit to New York and intends to visit some of the principal watering places. His secretary denied the rumor that the alleged 60,000 of his countrymen, residents of Cuba, are desirous of passing through our country on their way to China. Star Routes Uneasy.

WASHINGTON, July 26.

Star Route thieves have just cause for trembling. They are troubled not only by damning testimony recently admitted, but by a sharp thrust in an interlocutory decision made by Judge Wylie to-day, that adverse testimony and adverse charges, ought not to produce a verdict from the Jury in favor of the Star Route men. They have less and less hope of such verdict every day.

LINCOLN'S MOTHER.

The Death-Scene at Twilight Before the Cabin Door.

The following interesting chapter is from the historical novel, just published at Stuttgart, Germany, by Dr. Theodore Carlsius, entitled "Abraham Lincoln." Dr. Carlsius, was an intimate friend of President Lincoln, and has come into possession of many interesting facts relating to the Lincoln family which could tend to make him a faithful biographer.

Unfortunately, Abe was not allowed to follow his inclination. The summer season again called him from his studies. Not only was there work in abundance in the woods and fields, but the state of his mother's health became more and more hopeless, so that he was again compelled to perform the hardest work of the household, which his sister could not accomplish alone. The noble-hearted Mrs. Lincoln had become the shadow of her former self. Pale and emaciated she glided about the house, and when she attempted, now and then, to perform, with weak and trembling hands, some little task, she felt as though the exertion had exhausted all her energies. She seemed like a moving corpse, and only her strong will appeared to shield her body from total dissolution. She would not yet depart from her loving ones—and she lived. But how miserable that life during the whole of that summer! What a torture it had become to her! How many sleepless, feverish nights succeeded each other! At last she could no longer even move about the hut to direct and superintend the household affairs. For days she lay prostrate on her bed, with closed eyes, only now and then lying feebly a few words, yet whatever she uttered in such sad moments was filled with tender care for her family. Even in the occasional feverish wandering of her mind her thoughts lingered on that which in her laborious existence had formed the very essence of her life, and disclosed the once untiring activity of a worthy, excellent and industrious housewife. On warm, sunny days Father Thomas would carry the weak and now feather-light sufferer into the shade of a tree in front of the little house, where Abe and his sister prepared with loving hands a couch of pillows and bedding.

There Mother Nancy often sat for hours together, chilled creeping through her frame, even into the glowing sunbeams. Even then she looked with a faint smile toward her husband, who worked in the adjoining field, and who cast at intervals a careworn and anxious look toward his suffering wife; or her eyes followed the flight of birds that seemed to ascend to a higher world, to that far and unknown land toward which her soul was striving, for Mother Nancy was about to close her earthly existence, although she struggled against her approaching dissolution. How beautifully, in such moments, the sunlight transfigured the mild countenance of the parent and dying woman. How distinctly it was then revealed that a pure, God-fearing soul was departing this life. The quiet and pious expression of her face was truly spiritual, the beautiful, eloquent eyes clearer than ever, and over her entire figure was poured that holiness with which the nature of a just person in the last hours of life, like a presentment of eternal happiness, is endowed. And when Sarah, who so early had to take the housewife's place, left the hut and her work now and then to attend to her mother's wants—when Abe, awkward and slovenly as he was, crept with sorrowful face toward the sufferer's side, and looked with his large, intelligent eyes tearfully upon the invalid, often plucking shyly but tenderly at the pillows upon which she rested, or, overcome with grief, bent over her powerless and emaciated hands, mingling the scalding tears with his burning kisses—even then she had a smile for them, and no worldly anxiety was visible in her pale, sweet face, for as heaven shed its glorious light over her features faith and hope filled her heart and robbed the thought of death of its horrors.

A lovely autumn day was drawing to an end. The sun had just disappeared behind the tops of the forest trees; the ether, with its light, motionless clouds, glowed in rosy hues and shed a soft, golden light over foliage and field and over the cabin of the Lincoln. It was yet daylight, and the little family formed a quiet and sad group before the house. Legrand, who during the first stage of Nancy's illness had repeatedly called at the house of our settlers, now wandered again among the Indians of the far West. No one was present but the father, the suffering mother and her two children. It was a Sunday evening, too. Abe had already on many a Sabbath undertaken his mother's holy office of reading the Scriptures to the pious and godly family. Now again he sat upon a low nest. Mother Nancy, the old family Bible upon his knees, reading the gospel in a soft but clear voice. His little sister, seated beside the roughly-improvised couch of the mother, looking dreamily into her pale face and swollen eyes, while one of the thin hands of the patient woman rested upon the daughter's curly head. Father Thomas leaned against the tall eycamore, whose mighty branches shadowed the log cabin and the sorrowing little group. His broad chest, across which his arms were folded, heaved and betrayed the feelings of the husband. He gazed motionless into his wife's almost transfigured countenance, over which at that moment the evening cast a rosy hue. As times his lips moved convulsively, as if unable to repress the anguish that cramped his heart. His tearful eyes expressed the terrible grief and awful solicitude of the plain but deeply-feeling pioneer. Mother Nancy's earthly moments were numbered. This Thomas could not disguise from himself. He saw it by the momentary, light, scarcely perceptible convulsions of her emaciated body; by the change that had taken place during the last hour of her beautiful, gentle face; by the eyes that became more and more glazed, and only now and then lit up with an expression of love and anxiety for her dear ones. "Stop reading, Abe," he murmured, trembling with apprehension; "it worries your mother."

"No," breathed Mrs. Lincoln, in broken sentences, "it seems as though angels—were singing psalms—as though the entire glory—of the other world were disclosed to me—yes, thus—thus I always wished to die—the blue heaven above me—you at my side—and God's word on my lips. Your hand, Thomas."

The husband bent over his wife and took her right hand, which she was unable to lift. Abe had been silent. He now looked into his mother's face, hastily closed the Bible, and sprang up from the log.

"Gracious God! my mother is dying," he stammered, and reeled, pale and trembling, to her side, while Sarah uttered a cry, and, on her knees, buried her face, over which the tears were streaming, in the lap of the dying woman. But Abe embraced his mother and held her in his arms, as though, poor boy, he could in that way stay the soul of the so dearly loved mother.

"Don't cry," she whispered; "is not death a relief to me? I am prepared. I feel that I shall remain with you even when I am gone. I shall pray for you in Heaven, and shall see you all again. Be virtuous, Sarah. Remain honest and true, my Abe; honor and love your father; he will bring you up as Christians. I can die contentedly—and you—Thomas—"

"My Nancy—my wife!" stammered the strong man, now thoroughly overcome. "I have been faithful to you," she continued, in a feeble tone, "and you have done your duty. Thanks for all your kindness to me. And now—God be with you all—"

The noble woman endeavored to utter a few more words of love, but they were lost in an unintelligible murmur. One more glance she cast on all around her, and then her beautiful eyes, formerly so radiant with love became dim; the lips trembled for the last time. Death came to her like sweet sleep; serene and holy transfiguration lay over her quiet features: a smile hovered around the lips. Life had fled, but Nancy Lincoln resembled a softly-sleeping one over whom the last faint rays of the sun shed their mild, rosy hue. The children knelt weeping at the feet of the lifeless body. Thomas Lincoln still retained the now cold hand within his own.

"Let us pray, children," he muttered in the deepest agony, "that God may not forsake us in the hour of our greatest trial and need—you have no mother now."

UTAH FLYERS.

Three Stables Coming from Salt Lake to Enter the Speed Contest.
The GAZETTE is informed that several horses from Salt Lake will be here to enter the speed ring contest Fair week. E. Carrigan's stable of runners, containing Longstride, Pearl Jennings, Wild Moor, Belle of the West, Norton, two two-year-olds and one three-year-old, all said to be very fast, are coming. Gillman & Travers will be here with their stable of runners. The family consists of Red Boy, Euchre, Mura F., Duke of Monday and Lorillard. Two trotters, Ewing and Orphan Boy, from another stable, are also expected. The representatives from Mormondom intend going through the California and Nevada circuit and are likely to put some of our western flyers on their metal if they take down the purse. The outlook for a very interesting and closely contested meeting never looked better, and the attendance is sure to be very large. The Salt Lake horses are from the East. Their coming here will make the running race much more interesting. The farmers from every valley in the State are making calculations to come with their families, and it stands Reno in hand to put the best foot forward and assist in every way possible to make this Fair what it should be.

Good Shooting.

The weekly shoot of the Carson Guard took place Monday at Treadway's Park. James Chesley made 44 at the 500 range and 41 at the 200 range. At the 200-yard range James Crawford made the highest score with 45 points. Fourteen of the Carsons were in the contest, and they made an average of 41 and ten-fourteenths. Five men of Emmet Guard of Virginia were at the park and shot at the ranges, making a total of 207. Haskings of the Emmets shot at both ranges, making 47 points at the 200-yard range and 46 at the 500.

Worse Than Mosquitoes.

The Silver State says: Wm. Howard, one of the stage drivers of the Idaho line, was seriously burned Sunday night. When going to bed at the stage stable, the mosquito net, which hung around the bed, caught fire, and the blaze soon reached the cloth ceiling of the room. Howard fought the fire with a will, and succeeded in subduing it, but in doing so, got his hands badly burned, and his face and neck blistered. He is laid up, and cannot drive stage for some time.

Important Discovery.

Professors La Conte and Rising, from the University of California, have been making a scientific examination of the tracks found in the bedrock of the State Prison yard. Prof. La Conte says it is one of the most important discoveries ever made. The tracks of the mastodon are found in the same trail with those of the man. Their report will be very interesting.

A Wife for Somebody.

A young lady from Honey Lake Valley, only 16 years of age, is six feet tall and weighs 160 pounds. She is stopping at the Pollard House, and attracts much attention. When she marries her husband will be quite likely to stand in and do the correct thing at all times. He won't be apt to join any of the lodges without his wife's consent.

It Might Have Been Worse.

A party, consisting of Dorendo Dickey and wife, Miss Josie Barnes and a Mr. Boody, came very near being fatally poisoned at the Antelope mine a day or two ago from eating canned fruit. All four of them were taken violently ill about the same time, vomiting fearfully. This fact, coupled with having eaten the fruit on a full stomach, undoubtedly saved their lives.

A Big Ox.

A U. P. car in the emigrant train last night, contained an ox shipped from Forepaugh's circus in the East, to San Francisco for John Robinson. Robinson advertised a "big ox" quite extensively in this State, but he failed to show him up. The ox died at Omaha, and the one on the cars last night is to take its place. The animal's weight is 3,800 pounds, and is 7 feet 6 inches high.

A Happy Family.

Nellie Grant Sartoris celebrated her 27th birthday on the Fourth of July at Idelwild, on Green Bay, Wisconsin, where she has been for some time with her husband. She partakes of her husband's love for fishing, and proved herself an adept at a rifle and pistol shot.

Love Labor Lost.

Judge King, at Carson, on Monday granted the following divorces: Mary Ames from Phineas Ames, for desertion and failure to provide; Virginia Dore from Alexander Dore, for cruelty and failure to provide.

Where is A. L. Shinn?

A letter to the above-mentioned person, sent in the care of the GAZETTE, will be forwarded if he will send his address to this office.

Good Fishing.

Trout at Hope valley are very plentiful, and take the worm and fly readily. O. P. Willis and wife caught 1,500 in six days.

Improving the Farms.

M. Ayer, proprietor and editor of the Farmer and Dealer, left last night for Lovelocks to set up several headers he has sold in that section. Mr. Ayer says he has sold a large amount of agricultural machinery, wagons, etc., this season. He expects to return in a few days here. The farmers in this valley as well as on the Humboldt have provided themselves with the latest improved machines for harvesting their crops. The most of them have, within the last year, improved their buildings and farms very materially. Prosperity can be noticed in every direction.

Take Them In.

If those fishermen, Reno hoodlums and colored men do not stop purchasing whisky at Chinatown, and giving it to Indian maidens, it is reported that they are very likely to get into serious trouble, and that very soon. It is absolutely disgraceful to see squaws so full of whisky that they cannot get along the street without staggering against every lady or gentleman they happen to meet. Nearly every evening drunken squaws can be seen on most any of the back streets, and often times on Commercial row or Virginia street.

Justice Court.

Justice Young concluded the examination of John Rice for forgery this afternoon and bound him over in the sum of $1,000. Rice went over the river in default of bail. He wishes now he had remained with Robinson's circus and neglected his little spree. Con Hogan was discharged, Judge Young not deeming the evidence sufficiently strong to hold him. D. Allen defended Hogan.

Trade at Home.

Merchants and saloon men in the country can do as well or better by sending their orders for liquors or wines of any kind to Chielovich & Co.'s wine rooms, Reno, as they can by sending to San Francisco. By buying of Chielovich you save the freight from San Francisco to Reno, get your orders filled promptly and are guaranteed satisfaction.

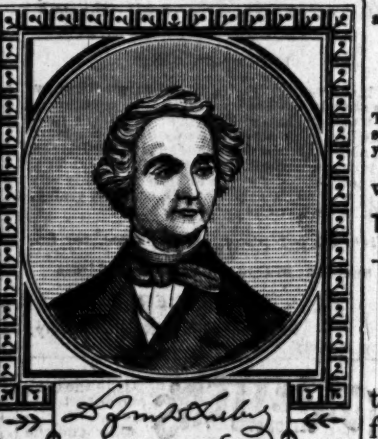

Finish the Job.

The fire cisterns lately put in by the Fire Trustees, have left the streets in bad condition. The one at the intersection of Second and West streets is several inches higher than the roadway, and the dirt has settled away from the side planking, making it very dangerous for teams passing that way in the evening. They need attention.

BORN.

WRIGHT—In Reno, July 25th, to the wife of John Wright, of Virginia, a son.

LIEBIG MALT EXTRACT.
RECOMMENDED BY PHYSICIANS of the highest eminence on both sides of the Atlantic, as an invaluable Tonic and Nutrient in cases of General Debility, Nervous Prostration, Indigestion, Consumption and Female Weakness.

NURSING MOTHERS, who suffer from poverty of milk, will find it a specific for their troubles. It stimulates the digestion, charges the appetite, invigorates and builds up the entire system, and excites a generous flow of milk.

WEAK AND SICKLY CHILDREN, who suffer from lameness and weakness, the result of disease, over-exercise, or nervous straits, will derive substantial benefit from its use. It restores the system to its normal condition and brings back the bloom of youth.

INVALIDS AND CONVALESCENTS will find it admirably adapted for sustaining life, and restoring lost strength. When the stomach is weak and refuses other nourishment the Extract will prove an excellent substitute for food. It either builds up the appetite or affords the taste.

DELICATE FEMALES, who suffer from the weakness of their sex, will derive lasting relief from its use. It improves the digestion, purifies the blood, stimulates the appetite, and restores the system to its normal condition.

WEAK AND DELICATE PERSONS GENERALLY, who require some artificial restorative—and especially those who are inclined to over-exercise, and are afflicted with indigestion, will find it a specific for the Coughs and Nervous Affections usually incident to low states of the system.

AS A FLESH RESTORER it possesses the highest value. The whole tendency of its action is to stimulate the digestion of the food, and its effect is invariably to give fullness and roundness to the female form, and robustness to the masculine frame.

THE LIEBIG MALT EXTRACT is a pure concentrated Fluid Extract of Malt, agreeable to the taste, and free from alcohol. It is readily assimilated in the stomach and contains more nutritive and nourishing ingredients. The genuine preparation bears on the label a fine engraved likeness of Baron von Liebig, and a facsimile of his signature, as well as that of A. VOGELER & CO., Barmen, Germany. Sole Agents for America.
